Administration (SAMHSA) federal grant awarded to Frederick County in September 2010. A Recovery Oriented System of Care (ROSC) is a client-centered approach assisting individuals and families seeking recovery from substance use disorders with accessing both treatment and recovery services such as, recovery coaching, job training and placement, transportation assistance, life-skills classes, childcare assistance, and other services designed to assist with recovery. ROSC involves developing a recovery community of persons in recovery supporting one another.

This dynamic training covers a variety of topics, including re-thinking the definition of recovery; introducing the role of Recovery Coach and defining its purpose; teaching and providing opportunities to practice effective skills in working with people in recovery; and learning how to mentor someone with differing values and beliefs.

Trainers will be Katherine Shriver, Director of Frederick County CORE, Carlton Hill, ATR Specialist, and Santita Prather, Program Specialist. A certificate of completion will be given at the end of the training. There is no cost for the training. The purpose of this training is to prepare individuals to serve as Recovery Coaches for ROSC participants in Frederick County.
